Policing The World Poetics: A. Spontaneous hepatic rupture, hyperbilirubinemia, and hemophagocytic syndrome in a dog following daclatasvir plus asunaprevir therapy for hepatitis C virus infection. A dog was referred for evaluation of a 3-week history of lethargy, labored breathing, and anorexia. After a brief clinical improvement, the dog had deteriorating clinical signs and mild hematuria. Thoracic radiographs demonstrated pleural and pulmonary effusions. Bilateral joint effusions were identified on ultrasonography. Blood analysis revealed neutrophilia and thrombocytopenia. Abdominal ultrasound revealed small fluid-filled structures that were consistent with liver and spleen. Liver biopsy
